

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Ongoing Consent Form for Hearing

Winnunga Nimmityjah Aboriginal Health and Community Services regularly checks Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander children to see if they have any hearing problems. The hearing tests are simple and painless. Early intervention will help your child hear, speak and learn well. If the test reveals that your child has hearing problems then we will contact you to obtain consent to refer your child to the doctor or audiologist. If you do consent to hearing tests being performed, the consent will be valid whilst your child remains enrolled at ACT primary school or preschool and will allow us to provide appropriate follow up of your child. Please contact us at Winnunga Nimmityjah Aboriginal Health and Community Services on (02) 6284 6222 if circumstances change or if you wish to withdraw consent at any time.
